

Wisteria Holmes

Storyboard

Rae/Sara Jones

Wisteria is a writer
that must travel
often for her job.
Sometimes to other countries

Wisteria often has to go abroad to new places that require a different wardrobe from her hometown.

I hope this won't take too long... I miss sightseeing

This requires her to shop in unfamiliar stores with unfamiliar/foreign sizing systems.

A person with a yellow face and black hair is standing in a clothing store, looking at a pile of blue jeans. A thought bubble above their head says, "I don't even know where to start... shopping isn't feeling fun anymore".

I don't even know where to start...
shopping isn't
feeling fun anymore

She often spends more time in stores desperately trying on different sizes than she does sightseeing and working on new writing.

She is embarrassed because she could not locate suitable stores with her size in stock. She had to resort to this outfit and her meeting is suffering because of it.

I wish there was a way to translate my american size to common international brands :(Oh well... I'll just call bestie

Maybe I can use this to go shopping before my next publisher meeting tomorrow. These clothes do not make me feel confident.

Thank you Friend

GIRL. Just get this app I found.. Lemme send you a link

She is highly upset about her day and decides to call her friend to commiserate. Her friend tells her about an app that will let her use her american sizes to determine her size in other places ... And show her where that size will be stocked.

I can't believe this app actually works..
The size it suggested is correct and it was right that it was stocked here.

Wisteria is ecstatic that she actually found clothes that fit correctly. She will be on time and confident for her next publisher meeting.

Wisteria, you have outdone yourself with this draft. We'd love to publish your book.

I feel SO much better today... They're really taking in my info.

THANK YOU.

Feeling more confident in her properly sized and occasion appropriate outfit, Wisteria lands a publisher for her newest book.
